BIOGRAPHY

Christine Chin is an artist whose work makes humorous and ironic commentary on contemporary issues of technology and the environment. Recent projects have addressed artificial intelligence, genetically modified food and alternative energy. Her work has been shown nationally and internationally at venues including the New York Hall of Science, Art Basel Miami, and Canon Communication Space, Beijing. In 2006-2007 she was granted a Fulbright Fellowship to pursue her project Alternative Alternative Energy in China, and she was the 2008 recipient of the Garry B. Fritz Iimagemaker Award from the Society for Photographic Education. Christine Chin has a BA from Princeton University, an MA in Visual Art from Purdue University, and an MFA in Photography from the University of New Mexico. She currently resides in Ithaca, New York.
